

LEGACIES

An unofficial campaign supplement for Games Workshop's Warhammer 40,000.

Rocketship Games

INTRODUCTION

Legacies is an unofficial, team-oriented skirmish campaign for Games Workshop's Warhammer 40,000. Its core is a set of eight thematic missions designed for Recon Squad, an unofficial skirmish variant of 40k similar to Games Workshop's Kill Team rules. In a Recon Squad game, players field only a squad or two on a small board with dense terrain, and all of their models act independently. This makes for a very different 40k experience, focused on the heroics and sacrifices of everyday grunts and squad leaders, while still using the standard gameplay rules you already know and the models you love.

Those skirmish missions are woven into a campaign by a set of eight Legacies, specific missions the recon squads are striving to complete for their alliance. The climax of the campaign is the Cataclysm, in which all the recon squads and some reinforcements fight alongside their alliance teammates in a final joint battle while also trying to fulfill their legacy.

Legacies may be run either as a single full-day event or over several evenings. Though the missions and legacies are thematic and storyful, Legacies does not have its own setting, so that it can be easily adapted to one of your own making. Other events are also easily connected before or after this campaign to form a larger narrative. Notes are also included here on scoring Legacies in a narrative tournament or league, with individual prizes.

OVERVIEW

Legacies is played as four rounds of Recon Squad skirmishes, each capturing a small but pivotal incident in a larger battle, followed by a closing Cataclysm team battle. Rules for Recon Squad are here:

<http://rocketshipgames.com/40k/recon-squad/>

Each recon squad is working toward a particular legacy inside the grand history of the greater conflict:

- Bodyguards: Fierce defenders of critical battlefield leaders and personnel;
- Excavators: Daring explorers, technical experts, and artifact raiders par excellence;
- Headhunters: Precision instruments of assassination and targeted violence;

Recon Squad

An unofficial supplement for Games Workshop's Warhammer 40,000

- Killers: Shattered fighters disconnected from anything but maniacal bloodshed;
- Penetrators: Sharpened blades able to break through any armor or defense;
- Scouts: Reckless adventurers dancing in the jaws of death for more information;
- Sentinels: Implacable defenders and masters of impromptu fortification building;
- Warriors: Hardened veterans that have been through everything and haven't seen the end.

Their path toward those legacies is defined by the missions they tackle, as attackers or defenders:

Ambush
Assassination
Battlefield
Breakthrough

Encirclement
Excavation
Installation
Skirmish

Successes and failures at those challenges will define both the recon squad's place in history, and their alliance's ability to win the Cataclysm.

ORGANIZATION

This section describes how to conduct a Legacies campaign, and is mostly intended for the organizer.

SCHEDULE

Recon Squad games can be easily run in about 60 minutes in an event setting with boards pre-arranged and armies unpacked before the clock starts for each round. Generally matches take at most 90 minutes even at a very casual pace with no preparation beforehand. The Cataclysm game can be comfortably played in 4 hours including setup. It's therefore feasible to run Legacies over either several evenings, or a single full day. A sample schedule for a single-day is:

11:00	Doors open
11:50	Registration Closes
12:00	Campaign Briefing & Alliance Pairings
12:15	Round 1
1:25	Alliance Pairings
1:35	Round 2
2:40	Alliance Pairings
2:50	Round 3
3:50	Alliance Pairings
4:00	Round 4
5:00	Dinner Break
5:30	The Cataclysm
9:30	Campaign Outcome & Prizes

ALLIANCES & STORY

At the start of the campaign, the players are organized into two alliances with an equal number of players. In some groups this might be faction specific, e.g., Chaos Daemons versus Eldar. Generally though an alliance will be comprised of several factions and can be given a less specific title such as the Forces of Order, Legions of Discord, or the Spoiler Horde. How players are assigned alliances is up to the organizer. In a large event with mostly strangers and tournament leanings it might be simply random. In more narrative-oriented and casual settings though, some attempt should be made to take into account thematic cohesiveness as well as balanced skill levels.

The concept behind the campaign is that each recon squad is a team of veterans or other distinguished warriors tasked with several special operations as part of a larger battle or war. In the course of those missions their paths eventually all cross, resulting in the larger final battle. Any specific background story is up to the organizer and players, enabling a range of narratives with more or less detail.

SETUP

In advance of the campaign, players should be pointed to the Recon Squad rules and the Missions section of this packet so they can design their Recon Squad and Cataclysm army lists. The campaign is themed around players fielding a single Recon Squad list throughout, but the organizer should feel free to be flexible about that requirement if they wish. In a campaign run over multiple days there is no need to require Cataclysm lists be finalized until the last event.

Preparing for the campaign is very simple. For each of the two alliances, print and cut apart enough sets of the 8 legacy cards in the Missions section to have at least one card per player. Also print and cut apart enough sets of the 8 mission sheets to have one for each match. For a campaign with up to 16 players this means making two sets of legacy cards and one set of mission sheets.

With anything but a very small number of players, it's probably easier to have players record results separately from the mission sheets, especially as the latter might be used again. In that case, print and cut apart enough copies of the scorecards at the end of this section to have one for each match. If using the scoring mechanism described here, also print and cut apart enough copies of the ballots and tickets to have one painting ballot per player and as many sportsmanship tickets as might be necessary. Finally, print out one copy of the Cataclysm scoresheet and as many copies of the players scoresheet as needed. A spreadsheet is available on the Legacies website.

LEGACIES

After being assigned an alliance, each player chooses a legacy. No legacy may be selected twice within an alliance until all legacies have been chosen at least once, and so on if there are even more players. Otherwise the alliance members may discuss among themselves how to divy up the legacies. If there is any contention, either ask the players in random order to choose, or randomly assign legacies.

Each legacy lists three Recon Squad Missions and gives a Cataclysm objective and legacy bonus. To achieve their legacy, players must accomplish the Cataclysm objective in the final team battle. If they win at least two of the three Recon Squad Missions in the given role of attacker, defender, or either, then they receive their legacy bonus in the Cataclysm.

Players' chosen legacies, match results, and whether or not they are succeeding at their missions are all public information throughout the campaign.

RECON SQUAD ROUNDS

Recon Squad match pairings are made strategically by the alliances to help their players achieve their legacy missions and further their collective strategic goals. Before each round, the alliances alternate nominating one of their remaining unpaired players along with a mission and role (attacker or defender). The opposing alliance then responds with a player for the match, who takes the other mission role and chooses an unclaimed game board to play on. This player must be in the same or best similar win/draw/loss bracket as the nominated player, unless the number of players is not great enough to make this restriction without repeating match pairings. In that case the later rounds might require specific pairings to not have repeats.

For the first round, the initial alliance to put a player forward is determined either randomly or based on the background story or the outcomes of connected preceding events. In subsequent rounds the alliances alternate making the initial nomination.

THE GREATER GOOD

Shas'ui Ke'ssai crouched behind the crude rubble barricade. His hooves trembled with the clamorous approach of the humans' ugly, stinking, smoking vehicles. In that moment, he realized he hated them. He hated them for their violence, and he hated them for what they'd done to his world. But most of all, he hated them for teaching him to hate.

Players should use the checkboxes on their legacy cards to record victories toward the Recon Squad Mission requirements, in addition to the organizer keeping track. It does not matter if the player was nominated or the responding opponent, and they do not have to complete the missions in any order. In order to get their legacy bonus in the Cataclysm they simply have to win each mission in the required role at some point in the campaign. Similarly, a player can attempt a mission and role pair multiple times. However, no advantage is gained by winning the same mission and role pair multiple times.

CATACLYSM

Following the four rounds of Recon Squad games, the campaign concludes by pitching the two teams against each other directly in the Cataclysm. Each player essentially adds 300 points to their Recon Squad, as described in detail in the Missions section.

Board. The table for the Cataclysm game should be 4' wide as usual, and roughly as many feet long as there are players in the campaign. So an 8-player campaign would conclude on an 8'x4' table. One idea to consider is simply moving together boards used in the Recon Squad rounds, so that the battle thematically continues directly over the same terrain.

Schedule. The Cataclysm runs for a fixed 5 turns. The organizer should determine and then enforce a schedule within the time allotted for the match to ensure it completes, setting a specific number of minutes for each turn. Remember that later turns tend to go faster as models have been removed. A reasonable schedule of alliance turns for a ~4 hour period, accommodating setup, teardown, and scoring, is:

Deployment	10 minutes each
Turn 1	20 minutes each
Turn 2	20 minutes each
Turn 3	20 minutes each
Turn 4	15 minutes each
Turn 5	15 minutes each

It is also important to ensure that enough time is reserved within each alliance's turn to resolve the assault phase. Players and armies focused on close combat might otherwise be disadvantaged. The organizer should make sure alliances move on to the assault phase with time to resolve combats as necessary, even if it means cutting short their other actions.

Teams. All players in an alliance select and field their own separate army lists following the rules given in the Cataclysm mission. For all gameplay purposes except as specifically noted by the Cataclysm rules and mission, the combined forces of an alliance are considered a single army comprised of multiple detachments and the team a single player.

Allies. Regardless of factions, players consider their teammates' models to be allies of convenience to their own army. Interactions between a player's own models are governed by the allies matrix as usual.

Turns. Alliance turns are player turns in all ways. Any actions not completed within turn time limits are forfeited. In game terms, each action happens sequentially as in a standard game: One unit moves, then another, then the game proceeds to the psychic phase and no more movements may be made, and so on. However, in the interest of time, in practice players with no more actions to take in a phase should carefully proceed to the subsequent phase, provided there will be no effect on another player's remaining actions in the current phase. Alternatively, players without actions of their own to complete should help execute actions of their teammates, e.g., resolving multiple unrelated ongoing combats in parallel.

Scope Limits. Special rules that affect all units, all enemy units, or the entire table are not applied. Specific examples include the Chaos Daemons' Warp Storm table, the Lord of the Storm rules for the Necron's Imotekh the Stormlord, and the Necron Solar Pulse, none of which take effect.

Army-wide buffs apply only to that detachment of that player's forces, as in a usual game, regardless of other factions that may be present in the alliance. For example, nominating Vulkan He'stan as a warlord makes only that player's Melta weapons in Vulkan's detachment Mastercrafted and does not affect any other detachments or players in their alliance, including other Salamanders Space Marines.

Psychic Phase. In the psychic phase, a single D6 is rolled by the current alliance to determine the base warp charge from which all of the players generate their own individual pools, applying the usual rules to their own models. Players all use their own warp charge pool; teammates cannot combine or share warp charge. Any opposing player with models on the table may attempt to deny the witch, caveat that if a specific unit of enemy models is targeted, their player alone may attempt to block the spell.

Objectives. If units from multiple players in an alliance control an objective marker, then each is considered to control it for purposes of meeting the Cataclysm objective for their legacy. They do not all score though, alliance victory points are only awarded once.

SCORING AND PRIZES

Legacies is oriented to casual play but can easily be used for a narrative tournament. Prizes should be kept small and well distributed though to limit the stakes, given that top players may not face each other if they're in the same alliance, players don't all contest the same scenarios, some missions are asymmetric, and so on. There should also perhaps be two sets of prizes for any gameplay awards, one for each alliance. The following section outlines one possible narrative tournament scoring and prize scheme.

Prizes. Three prize categories are offered:

- Winners in each alliance by overall scores;
- Painting award based on player voting;
- Best squad leader by top game results.

Overall Scores. A total of 100 points are available for each player throughout the campaign:

- 60 points for game results;
- 20 points for painting and craftsmanship;
- 20 points for sportsmanship.

Game Results. Each of the four Recon Squad missions are worth up to 12 points:

- Major victory: 10 points winner, 0 not-winner;
- Minor victory: 7 points winner, 3 not-winner;
- Draw: 5 points to both players.
- 2 bonus points are available in each mission.

Players may also earn up to 12 points in the Cataclysm toward their individual game results:

- 7 points for winning their Cataclysm objective;
- 3 points if they earned their legacy bonus;
- 2 points if their alliance won a tactical victory in the Cataclysm (most victory points earned).

Painting and Craftsmanship. Painting and craft work is scored objectively by the organizer applying this rubric to the entire army:

- All models assembled and primed: +5 pts
- All models three-color minimum: +5 pts
- All models based (paint/flock): +4 pts
- Advanced painting techniques present on any model (washes, drybrushing, etc.): +3 pts
- Advanced basing techniques present on any model (3D details, varied flock, etc.): +3 pts

Note that this goes solely toward overall scores. The painting award is based purely on player voting.

Sportsmanship. By default players earn 5 points for sportsmanship in each Recon Squad round. However, they may be docked points for poor behavior by an opponent submitting a sportsmanship ticket:

- Openly hostile or rude: -3 pts
- Unnecessarily competitive: -2 pts
- Sloppy measuring, line of sight, or dice: -2 pts
- Unreasonably late, slow, or inattentive: -1 pt
- Significantly unfamiliar with rules: -1 pt
- Not prepared with clear, typed army lists: -1 pt

Hopefully few or no tickets need be submitted; it's perfectly acceptable for players to not penalize opponents. It should be feasible to supply each player one ticket to start and only give out more as needed.

Painting Award. The painting award is determined by player voting, not the painting scores. Each player must submit a ballot of what they consider the top three best-made armies, excluding themselves, awarding 3, 2, and 1 votes. The most votes wins.

MISSIONS

Army rules, legacies, and missions for the campaign are in this section and should be read by all players.

CAMPAIGN

The campaign consists of four rounds of Recon Squad skirmish matches, followed by the Cataclysm, a climactic team battle. Army construction and gameplay rules for the Recon Squad rounds are here:

<http://rocketshipgames.com/40k/recon-squad/>

The Cataclysm uses standard 40k gameplay rules except as described in this packet.

At the start of the campaign, players join an alliance and choose a legacy. Legacies cannot be repeated within an alliance until all have been chosen. In each of the Recon Squad rounds, the alliances alternate choosing missions from those in this section.

ARMY CONSTRUCTION

Each player must prepare two lists:

- Recon Squad: For the skirmish missions;
- Cataclysm: For the climactic final team battle.

Recon Squad lists are selected to at most 200 points, following the rules in that packet. Cataclysm lists are selected to at most 500 points by these rules:

- Each player's Recon Squad list must be included in their Cataclysm list in its entirety.
- Additional units and models (with wargear and upgrades) may be added to the Recon Squad Detachment. However, the original models may not receive new wargear or upgrades.
- A single Cataclysm Reinforcements Detachment may be added to the army, with a force organization of 0–1 HQ, 1–3 Troop, 0–1 Elite, 0–1

Fast Attack, 0–1 Heavy Support, and 0–1 Fortification. All its units must be chosen from a single faction, but that may be a different faction from the Recon Squad Detachment.

- No models with more than 3 wounds/hull points.
- No vehicles with total armor (front + side + rear) of more than 33.
- No models with both a 2+ Armor and 3+ Invulnerable save or better are permitted.
- No flyers, flying monstrous creatures, superheavy vehicles, gargantuan creatures, or mighty bulwarks are permitted.
- No psykers of mastery level 2 or greater.
- No unique independent characters or unique wargear is permitted.

RECON SQUAD MISSION RULES

The Recon Squad missions use the following rules:

- Matches are played on 4"x4" tables.
- The Variable Game Length rule applies.
- If either player wishes the game to be a night fight, roll a D6 before any deployment begins. Night Fighting is in effect (all units have Stealth) for game turn 1 on a 4+; on a result of 1 Night Fighting takes effect for turn 5 and thereafter.
- Unless specifically noted otherwise by the mission, deployment and turn order follows the standard rules: The winner of a D6 roll off decides to deploy first or second. After both players deploy, the player that deployed first chooses to play first or second. The player to go second may attempt to Seize the Initiative.

MISSION: AMBUSH

A supply convoy is moving through the area.

Attacker: You need those supplies.

Defender: The supplies must get through.

THE BATTLEFIELD

The winner of a D6 roll off chooses a table edge and the other player takes the opposite. The defender's deployment zone is the 12" strip along their table edge. All of the attacker's units gain Outflank and must be placed in reserve, except Infiltrators which may deploy as usual. At the start of their deployment, the defender gains a convoy vehicle for their army.

MISSION RULES

Half of the attacker's army by the number of models, rounding up, arrives from reserve on Turn 1. The remainder arrive from reserve as usual.

The convoy vehicle has armor 11/11/10, 3 hull points, and may not move Flat Out. It ignores all results on the Vehicle Damage table, only losing the hull point when damage is incurred. On a failed dangerous terrain test it loses a hull point and cannot move further that phase but is not immobilized. The vehicle, or its wreck, also acts as an objective marker. While the vehicle is not destroyed, the defender controls it by default if there are no attacker models within 3".

Attacker Defender		SCORING

no enemy models are in base to base contact with it may move the marker with itself up to a total of 6" in the movement phase, ending in contact with the model. The marker cannot leave the table or embark.

It has armor 11 on each facing, 3 hull points, a transport capacity of 5, battlements on top, and access points on the sides and back. <input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Bonus Point: Player has at least one model within 12" of at least two table corners, not including their deployment corner.

THE CATACLYSM

All of the recon squads have crossed paths as they fight toward their final missions!

The alliance with fewer total points earned in the Recon Squad matches is considered the Defender, and the other alliance the Attacker.

HEROES

Before the game begins, the specialists in each player's recon squad are elevated to be independent characters. Each leader additionally gains 1 Wound, is considered to be an HQ unit, and is their player's warlord. The warlords receive a warlord trait as usual, and players may reroll randomly chosen traits.

Before any deployment, each alliance declares one of their warlords to be their warmaster.

THE BATTLEFIELD

Deployment zones are the areas up to 12" from the long table edges and along their length (Dawn of War). The defender chooses a zone and the attacker takes the other, both taking the long edge of their zone as their player table edge. The defender then places 3 primary objective markers in its deployment zone, after which the attacker places 3 in its zone.

After all deployment (before any Scout redeployments), each player places a secondary objective marker, alternating sides beginning with the defender.

The defender chooses to play first or second.

MISSION RULES

Night Fighting, Seize the Initiative, and Reserves all apply as in the standard Eternal War missions. The Cataclysm ends after game turn 5.

SCORING

Objective markers are scored after each game turn: Primaries award the current turn number in victory points, while secondaries award 1 victory point.

Alliances gain 2 victory points if the opposing warmaster is removed as a casualty, and 1 victory point for each other opposing warlord eliminated.

First Blood and Linebreaker both apply as in the standard Eternal War missions.

Whichever alliance scores the most victory points wins a tactical victory in the Cataclysm, while the alliance that has more players achieve their legacy objectives wins a strategic victory.
